this publication serves as a companion volume to Josef Hoffmann Interiors 1902 1913. It documents the installation of this extraordinary exhibition which opened at the Neue Galerie New York in November 2006. Four entire Hoffmann rooms were recreated for the exhibition: a girl's bedroom from the Max Biech Apartment Vienna 1902; a bedroom from the Hans Salzer Apartment Vienna 1902; the dining room from the apartment of Jerome Stonborough and Margaret Stonborough Wittgenstein Berlin 1905; and the dining room from the apartment of the Swiss painter Ferdinand Hodler Geneva 1913. Christian Witt Döring, curator of decorative arts for the Neue Galerie, details the painstaking process of assembling materials for these interiors both from an aesthetic and a practical standpoint. In the process he reveals how a curator takes on the challenge of bringing the work of a major designer to life. The result is a publication that displays the work of Josef Hoffmann as it was meant to be seen in color and as a series of fully realized ensembles.

The Viennese Café was a key site of urban modernity around 1900 in the rapidly growing city. It functioned simultaneously as home and workplace, affording opportunities for both leisure and intellectual exchange. This volume explores the nature and function of the coffeehouse in the social cultural and political world of fin de siècle vienna just as the café served as a creative meeting place within the city so this volume initiates conversations between different disciplines focusing on vienna at the beginning of the twentieth century contributions are drawn from the fields of social and cultural history literary studies jewish studies and art and architectural and design history a fresh perspective is also provided by a selection of comparative articles exploring coffeehouse culture elsewhere in eastern europe
